The people are gradually taking account of the details of the injury wrought by the carthquake, and the list of damages to property is startling. A limited section in the south part of the city is a sample of the whole. Standing at the postoffice and looking west and an almost impassable roadway of debris meets the eye. The building of the chamber of commerce is badly damaged, a portion of the south and cast walls having been thrown down by the violence of the shock, and the buildings of Walker, Evans & Bogs ings of Walker, Evans & Bogs in the Walker & Bogs in the Walker & Bogs in the Walker well have also suffered, while the heavy granite slabs which formed the parapet of the News and Courier building lie on the sidewalk, leaving the slate roof and were seriously injured.

out the dead from the debris or succor the wounded.

The first successful effort to get at facts is now making. The list of the dead, recognized and reported this morning, at this time foots up sixteen and the search is only commenced. The list of the wounded will go into the hundreds.

A real fact indicated that the force was being exerted at rather more than the depth that was first thought to be the limit of the force. Near train took none now for twelve hours and strong the dark under the unseen influences of the hopes are entertained that the horror is shock that dismantled the road. It is said that the earth suddents about over.

Specials from points in South Carolina ranging from extreme northwest to the sea coast report severe shocks with more or less damage to property, though without loss of life so far as known. In Orangeburg people became so much alarmed that many moved to Columbia.

As the details of the calculate is the sea compared to the calculation of the succeeding terrestrial undulation and having reached the top of the wave a sudden swerving of the force to the right and left hurled the ill-fated train down the embankment. The train at the time of the earthquake was running at the usual rate of speed and when about a mile south of Jedburg it encountered a terrible experience.

It was freighted with hundreds of excur sionists returning from the mountains sionists returning from the mountains. They were all gay and happy, laughing and talking, when all of a sudden, in the language of one of the excursionists, the train appeared to have left the track and was going up, up, up into the air. This was the rising wave. Suddenly it descended and as it rapidly fell it was flung first violently over to the east, the sides of the car apparently leaning over at less than an angle of forty-five degrees.

Then there was a reflex action and the train righted and was hurled with a roar as of a discharge of artillery, over to the west, and finally subsided on the track and took a plunge downward-evidently the des-cending wave. The train was taken back in the direction of Jedburg and on the way back the work of the earthquake was terribly potent. The train had actually passed over one of these scrpentine curves already described.

The Missouri Compromise.

Sr. Louis, Mo., Sept. 2.—A Post-Dis-patch special from Sedalia says the Repubican state convention adjourned sine die this morning at 4:15. The question of sub-mitting a prohibition amendment to the constitution, over which an all night wrangle was had, was compromised, the plank in question as adopted affirming that when any large number of voters petition the legislature for the submission of an amendment providing for a change in the organic law of the state, it is the duty of
